Opinion

by Stephanie Yeagle

View Author Profile

syeagle@ncronline.org
Follow on Twitter at @ncrSLY

Join the Conversation

Send your thoughts to Letters to the Editor. Learn more

February 27, 2018
Share on BlueskyShare on FacebookShare on TwitterEmail to a friendPrint

Today, hundreds of Catholic leaders will gather in Washington, D.C., for a Catholic Day of Action for Dreamers to demand a clean Dream Act. Many are planning to get arrested for nonviolent civil disobedience, including Jesuit Fr. Tom Reese. NCR contributor Julie Bourbon will be covering the event for NCR.

In other news at NCRonline today:

Walk with migrants: Symposium calls church's people to do more

Supreme Court blocks Trump administration's effort to end DACA in March

Congo's bishops: Two killed during protests against 'dictatorship'

Mideast Christian leaders shut Church of Holy Sepulcher to protest taxes

ICYMI: Love holds no place for subordination

At Global Sisters Report:

Learning everything again -- and other challenges of religious life

Q & A with Sr. Mary Nguyen Thi Nhiem, serving ethnic villagers after a struggle to pursue her vocation

Column: Religious life and family

Advertisement

In other news around the web:

Iraq’s ethnic, religious groups fragmented as elections near

Twenty States Sue Federal Government, Seeking End to Obamacare

Opinion: If this is what conservatism has become, count me out

Opinion: It's time to say last rites over American conservatism

Scotland: Church fights smacking ban

Months after exodus began, Rohingya see no end to suffering

Newsweek stands accused of improper ties to a religious institution

Commentary: Guns are Americans' golden calf