Updated July 24, 2018, 7:30 a.m. If you are reading this, it means our maintenence early this morning was carried out successfully.

In the wee hours of Tuesday morning, July 24 — midnight to 4 a.m. or so U.S. central time — our technicians will be doing some maintenance on our websites, NCRonline.org and GlobalSistersReport.org. Visitors shouldn't experience any interruptions in service. If you do have an access issues, it should be only momentary, a hiccup or glitch. If you experience longtime delays, please send me an email: dcoday@ncronline.org.

As always, thanks for reading.

You know, I could have headlined this posting "Your support dollars at work." The maintenence being done Tuesday morning is critical to delivering the news and analysis you come to this site to read. Only the generous support of NCR Forward members, subscribers and donors makes this work possible. Thank you for your generous support of NCR's media mission.
