

by Tracy Abeln

View Author Profile
tabeln@ncronline.org

Join the Conversation

Send your thoughts to Letters to the Editor. Learn more

February 8, 2019

Share on FacebookShare on TwitterEmail to a friendPrint

Our team of copy editors reads and posts most of what you see on the websites for National Catholic Reporter and Global Sisters Report (the NCR project focusing on women religious). The Copy Desk Daily provides insight on recommended news and opinion articles that have crossed our desks on their way to you.

The fourth part of our series focusing on seminaries in the United States is here. "On the lookout for trace elements of clerical attitudes," this Oregon seminary's formation program emphasizes collegiality, collaboration, self-awareness and bridge-building.

Read: Screening, service, reflection are Mount Angel's antidotes to clericalism

Today is the International Day of Prayer and Awareness Against Human Trafficking. GSR has an extensive compilation of action to share.

Read: Sisters work against human trafficking

Columnist Jocelyn Sideco is an educator who tries to create experiences and environments that encourage healthy risk-taking.

Read: The courage of youth might motivate us

Joyce Meyer is a member of the Sisters of the Presentation of the Blessed Virgin Mary and is GSR's liaison to women religious outside of the United States. We always learn a lot from her travels.

Read: Good Samaritans' ministries face challenges of Kiribati's vulnerable future

Everyone seems to have an opinion on this one! After NCR published letters to the editor received from all over the globe to an opinion piece published Dec. 18 titled "Is sipping from the Communion cup a hazard to your health?," even more letters flooded our inbox.

Read: Your thoughts on illness and the communion cup, part two

Want to keep updated with the latest news from the National Catholic Reporter?
Sign up here for news updates by email.

Advertisement