Vatican

NCR news editor Joshua McElwee, St. Joseph Sr. Katie Eiffe, and San Diego Bishop Robert McElroy in a NCR Live discussion (NCR screenshot/YouTube)

by Stephanie Yeagle

View Author Profile

syeagle@ncronline.org
Follow on Twitter at @ncrSLY

Join the Conversation

Send your thoughts to Letters to the Editor. Learn more

October 21, 2021

Share on BlueskyShare on FacebookShare on TwitterEmail to a friendPrint

NCR news editor Joshua McElwee hosts a conversation about Pope Francis' vision for the 2021-23 Catholic Synod of Bishops with San Diego Bishop Robert McElroy and St. Joseph Sr. Katie Eiffe, director of synodal planning for the Diocese of Syracuse, New York.

Background reading:

- Just weeks before Catholic prelates worldwide open a first-of-its-kind consultation period for the Vatican's Synod of Bishops, many U.S. church officials were still figuring out exactly what that process will look like.

- Pope Francis on Oct. 10 officially launched the Vatican's high-stakes, two-year synod process in an opening Mass where he urged the global Catholic church to master the "art of encounter."

- All of NCR's coverage for the synod on synodality can be found here.

Stay tuned for more NCR Live events in the coming weeks. And follow us on Twitter, Facebook and Instagram for the latest news and updates.

Advertisement

This story appears in the Synod on Synodality feature series. View the full series.