

Daniel Ellsberg to begin writing a 'nuclear memoir'

Thomas C. Fox | Aug. 7, 2009 NCR Today

After Labor Day, Daniel Ellsberg's Web site [1], , and some other sites including Truthdig, will start regular installments of his insider's memoir of the nuclear era??The American Doomsday Machine??an Internet book reflecting his earlier classified work and 40 years of research.

In the article here, [2] Ellsberg says: ?To understand the urgency of radical changes in our nuclear policies that may truly move the world toward abolition of nuclear weapons, we need a new understanding of the real history of the nuclear age. ... I plan over the next year, before the 65th anniversary of Hiroshima, to do my part in unveiling this hidden history.?

Source URL (retrieved on 05/24/2017 - 18:46): <https://www.ncronline.org/blogs/ncr-today/daniel-ellsberg-begin-writing-nuclear-memoir>

Links:

[1] <http://www.ellsberg.net>

[2]

http://www.truthdig.com/report/item/20090805_hiroshima_day_america_has_been_asleep_at_the_wheel_for_64_years/