

Two respond to Archbishop Dolan's anti-Catholic charge

NCR Staff | Nov. 9, 2009

A blog posting by Archbishop Timothy Dolan of New York criticizing The New York Times for unfair and even anti-Catholic reporting of the church generated much discussion online and off. Here, two NCR writers weigh in. Tom Roberts says The "anti-Catholic!" cry is a cheap, easy accusation [1], and Joe Ferullo tries to answer the question Why does the media 'go after' the church? [2]

Support independent reporting on important issues.

Source URL (retrieved on 06/23/2017 - 05:26): <https://www.ncronline.org/news/accountability/two-respond-archbishop-dolans-anti-catholic-charge>

Links:

[1] <http://ncronline.org/node/15713>

[2] <http://ncronline.org/node/15712>

[3] <https://www.ncronline.org/donate?clickSource=article-end>