Fact-checking health reform debate

by Dennis Coday

NCR Today

I found this article from Kaiser Health News, a nonprofit news organization committed to in-depth coverage of health care policy and politics, helpful while discussing health care reform legislation with my extended family over the Easter holiday. True or False: Seven Concerns About The New Health Law

Kaiser Health News is funded by the Kaiser Family Foundation. A bit more info about the news service from its Web site:

KHN's mission is to provide high-quality coverage of health policy issues and developments at the federal and state levels. In addition, KHN covers trends in the delivery of health care and in the marketplace.

Among our goals: provide new opportunities for health care journalists to produce in-depth work and a new vehicle to distribute it through collaborations with major news organizations and on this Web site. This Web site also features daily summaries of major health care news from across the nation, as well as original videos and a broad range of commentary from contributing writers and issues.
