

Final Cook Predictions

Michael Sean Winters | Nov. 1, 2010 Distinctly Catholic

The final pre-election report from the Cook Political Report is predicting GOP gains of 50-60 seats in the House and six to eight Senate seats. Those numbers appear to be similar to what others are projecting but, as noted earlier, everything depends on turnout.

There is also a very useful hour-by-hour analysis, based on when the polls close in different states, at fivethirtyeight.com [1].

Tomorrow night, I will be live blogging throughout the night.
