

Published on National Catholic Reporter (<https://www.ncronline.org>)

December 13, 2010 at 1:30pm

Right Wing Hypocrisy Watch

by Michael Sean Winters

Distinctly Catholic

There is an argument to be made, and an argument that evidently won the day in a Virginia District Court, that the individual mandate to acquire health insurance is unconstitutional. I do not happen to think it is a very persuasive argument, but that is a separate issue.

But, I predict you will look in vain in the next few days for the conservative commentariat to abandon completely one of their decades-long staples: Their objection to "activist" judges.

The political branches decided the Commerce Clause was sufficient to justify the individual mandate.

Now, an "unelected judge" has decided otherwise. I like a robust judiciary as much as the next liberal - and note that two other federal judges have ruled the individual mandate did pass constitutional muster - but the right wingers should be suffering backlash right now, and I suspect they will go to great lengths to conceal it.

Source URL (retrieved on 05/22/2018 - 3:46am): <https://www.ncronline.org/blogs/distinctly-catholic/right-wing-hypocrisy-watch?splash=>

Links:

[1] <https://www.ncronline.org/forward/join?clickSource=end-article>

[2] <https://www.ncronline.org/node/160616>