

O'Malley in Dublin

Michael Sean Winters | Feb. 22, 2011 | Distinctly Catholic

Rocco Palmo has the text [1] of Cardinal Sean O'Malley's sermon at the service of repentance held at St. Mary's pro-cathedral in Dublin this past weekend. The homily is stunning. Just as stunning is the image of Cardinal Sean and Archbishop Martin prostrate before the bare altar at the start of the service.

This is the stance the Church must adopt in the face of the on-going sex abuse scandal: Repentance, pure, simple repentance.

Source URL (retrieved on 05/29/2017 - 16:31): <https://www.ncronline.org/blogs/distinctly-catholic/omalley-dublin>

Links:

[1] <http://whispersintheloggia.blogspot.com/2011/02/on-behalf-of-holy-father-i-ask.html>