

Good News on Jobs

Michael Sean Winters | Mar. 4, 2011 Distinctly Catholic

The unemployment rate dipped again, despite analysts predictions it might move north, falling to 8.9 percent. Last month, according to figures released this morning, 192,000 new jobs were added to the economy. That is not enough - and it could be offset by cutbacks in state and local governments if the Tea Party has its way, but it is nice to find some good news on the business pages.

Source URL (retrieved on 06/22/2017 - 22:59): <https://www.ncronline.org/blogs/distinctly-catholic/good-news-jobs>