Cohn Takes on Ryan

by Michael Sean Winters

Distinctly Catholic

Jonathan Cohn at the New Republic explains the significance of Rep. Paul Ryan's budget proposals for the way we provide health care, especially to our elderly. Cohn is, as regular readers know, the smartest commentator on health care policy in the country. And, he sees the forest for the trees in Ryan's plan: This is not about improving health care costs. This is about letting the rich get richer and letting the vast majority of Americans fend for themselves. It is social Darwinism.
