

God and Moses with Google

Renée Schafer Horton | Apr. 20, 2011 NCR Today

Need something to lighten up your Holy Week? AISH.com [1] (home of "Ask the Rabbi" and Jewlariious [2]) has this really funny take [3] on what the Exodus would have been like if God and Moses had Google. I know Holy Week is solemn, and Holy Thursday's commemoration of Jesus' Last Supper -- which three of the four Gospels infer was a Passover Seder although some folks argue it wasn't [4] -- is serious business. Still, I think there's room for laughter this week. Take a tiny break from work and prayer to chuckle about how the Exodus would have been different if God, Moses and the Pharaoh had Google.

Source URL (retrieved on 06/24/2017 - 12:49): <https://www.ncronline.org/blogs/ncr-today/god-and-moses-google-0>

Links:

[1] <https://www.ncronline.org/AISH.com>

[2] <http://www.aish.com/j/>

[3] http://www.aish.com/h/pes/mm/Passover_Google_Exodus.html

[4] <http://www.bib-arch.org/e-features/jesus-last-supper.asp>