

Romney's Problem with Conservatives

Michael Sean Winters | Jun. 15, 2011 | Distinctly Catholic

Sahil Kapur at the New Republic has a post about conservative attempts to derail Mitt Romney's presidential campaign. [1] It is curious that it is not only social conservatives who are suspicious of Romney's conversion to a pro-life stance, but the laissez-faire dogmatists who are attacking Romney. This is the essential problem he faces: A GOP primary electorate that is all wiggled up will have a hard time getting enthusiastic about a man whose entire demeanor, to say nothing of his record, bespeaks a more moderate, centrist approach to governance.

---

Source URL (retrieved on 07/25/2017 - 21:31): <https://www.ncronline.org/blogs/distinctly-catholic/romneys-problem-conservatives>

Links:

[1] <http://www.tnr.com/article/politics/89992/mitt-romney-conservatives-freedomworks-campaign>