

Note to Readers

Michael Sean Winters | Jul. 20, 2011 | Distinctly Catholic

The internet at my home is not working this morning, so I am writing from the nearby Starbucks. In the event, the same people who provide Internet are coming this morning to install a new cable television box, so hopefully they can fix the internet problem. If not, as soon as they are gone, I will head to the office and post more items later today. I apologize.
