

Catholic teaching, immigrants and US policy: Oct. 27

Dennis Coday | Oct. 6, 2011

Immigration and the Church

Upcoming event at Seton Hall University:

The Center for Catholic Studies and the Micah Institute for Business and Economics' Fall 2011 Lecture, entitled And You Welcomed Me: Catholic Teaching, Immigrants and US Immigration Policy, will be presented October 27 at 5:30 p.m. in the Helen Lerner Amphitheatre in McNulty Hall at Seton Hall University. All are welcome to attend, and the event is free of charge.

The lecture and discussion will be presented by Donald Kerwin, Executive Director of the Center for Migration Studies, and Jill Gerschutz-Bell, Senior Legislative Specialist for Washington, D.C.'s Catholic Relief Services, who co-authored And You Welcomed Me: Migration and Catholic Social Teaching (Lexington Press, 2009), as well as Fr. Jack Martin of the Haiti Solidarity Network of the Northeast.

Click here for more information [1] about the lecture.

Speaking at the event is Jill Gerschutz-Bell, who will also speak at Celebration's upcoming Eucharist Without Borders conference [2] in April 2012.

Support independent reporting on important issues.

Source URL (retrieved on 07/26/2017 - 15:44): <https://www.ncronline.org/news/catholic-teaching-immigrants-and-us-policy-oct-27>

Links:

[1] <http://www.shu.edu/news/article/362646>

[2] <http://celebrationpublications.org/conference>

[3] <https://www.ncronline.org/donate?clickSource=article-end>