

How do you inspire people to be Catholic?

Dennis Coday | Aug. 10, 2012 NCR Today

A couple weeks ago NCR editor at large Tom Roberts was All Things Considered Weekends with Guy Raz [1]. It was part of a much bigger piece about religion in America, but in Tom's bit, he said this:

The question today is, how do you inspire people to be Catholic? What is the community about? And I think that's a huge question today, given the mix of societal forces, the challenge that has come out of the sex abuse crisis and just the general disposition toward organized religion today.

That's your assignment this weekend, NCR reader. How would you propose inspiring people to be Catholic?
