

The Missing Name

Michael Sean Winters | Oct. 24, 2012 Distinctly Catholic

Looking at the list of new cardinals, there was one name that seemed especially conspicuous in its absence - the new head of the CDF, Archbishop Muller. Maybe Pope Benedict wanted the headline he is already getting - no Europeans - but this strikes me as very strange. Muller occupies an influential and important post, but in the world of curial politics, it matters whether you are wearing red or magenta.

Source URL (retrieved on 06/25/2017 - 17:48): <https://www.ncronline.org/blogs/distinctly-catholic/missing-name>