

Polarization on Cable

Michael Sean Winters | Oct. 25, 2012 Distinctly Catholic

Last night, Rachel Maddow spent the first twenty minutes of her show discussing Indiana Senate candidate Richard Mourdock's bizarre attempt to discuss God's intentions regarding rape and pregnancy.

Last night, Sean Hannity spent the first twenty minutes of his show discussing the Obama administration's response to the attacks in Benghazi.

If you thought the culture wars were receding, think again.
