

Religious Voting Breakdown

Michael Sean Winters | Nov. 1, 2012 Distinctly Catholic

At the Washington Post, Mark Rozell [1] looks at different religious groups and how they will likely be voting this year. Rozell is a professor of public policy at George Mason University and a senior fellow at the Institute for Policy research & Catholic Studies at CUA, where I am a visiting fellow. He has been looking at this kind of data for years and no one knows this turf better.

Source URL (retrieved on 05/30/2017 - 01:00): <https://www.ncronline.org/blogs/distinctly-catholic/religious-voting-breakdown>

Links:

[1] http://www.washingtonpost.com/local/presidential-election-religious-voting-groups-could-determine-the-winner/2012/10/31/2b2f91e6-2380-11e2-ba29-238a6ac36a08_story.html?wpisrc=emailtoafriend