

Gun Control: A 'Pro-Life' Position

Maureen Fiedler | Dec. 14, 2012 NCR Today

In his Oct. 27, op-ed column in The New York Times, Thomas Friedman said this: "for me, the most 'pro-life' politician in America is New York City Mayor Michael Bloomberg."

That may shock some people because Bloomberg is for a woman's right to choose, and Friedman acknowledged that. But he enumerated several reasons for his pro-life description of Bloomberg, and this one stands out today: "he has used his position to push to reinstate the expired federal ban on assault weapons and other forms of common-sense gun control" Read the full column [1].

In the wake of the school shooting and multiple deaths in Connecticut, need we say more?
