

Profile of Denis McDonough

Michael Sean Winters | Jan. 18, 2013 | Distinctly Catholic

President Obama is expected to announce that Denis McDonough will be his new chief of staff. This is one of the top jobs in Washington, and McDonough has been a friend to the Church during his tenure at the national Security Council. His brother is a priest who was Vicar General of the Archdiocese of St. Paul. This profile of McDonough [1] ran in this morning's Washington Post.

Note to Readers - sorry for delay in getting my links up. Had to meet dear friends downtown this morning and then a meeting.

Source URL (retrieved on 05/28/2017 - 07:54): <https://www.ncronline.org/blogs/distinctly-catholic/profile-denis-mcdonough>

Links:

[1] http://www.washingtonpost.com/politics/mcdonough-to-be-obamas-new-chief-of-staff/2013/01/17/f00928d2-6094-11e2-b05a-605528f6b712_story.html