

The plea of a young Catholic

Thomas C. Fox | Feb. 14, 2013 NCR Today
Benedict Resigns

?The Gospel?s call to love one another [1] is the basis for the rich Catholic social teaching that sparked and nourished my love of God and church. It is this love that is absent from too many actions of our leadership. No wonder Catholics like me are despairing. We can?t find Christ in our church. ?

It is for this reason that I hope and pray our new pope has a more inclusive mind and a stronger commitment to the teachings of Jesus. I hope the next pope embraces the truth and necessity of social justice not only because it is inspirational, but also because it is vital if our church is to be relevant in the lives of younger Catholics for generations to come.?

---- James Salt, executive director of Catholics United

Source URL (retrieved on 07/28/2017 - 10:45): <https://www.ncronline.org/blogs/ncr-today/plea-young-catholic>

Links:

[1] http://www.washingtonpost.com/blogs/guest-voices/post/the-catholic-church-must-change/2013/02/13/5790689a-7606-11e2-95e4-6148e45d7adb_blog.html