

St. Thomas gets first lay president

Zoe Ryan | Feb. 14, 2013 NCR Today

Minnesota's University of St. Thomas appointed its first female and first lay president in its history.

From the Star Tribune:

Breaking with a nearly century old-tradition, University of St. Thomas Board of Trustees members Thursday appointed a woman and non-cleric as the Catholic school's new president.

Julie Sullivan, executive vice president and provost at the University of San Diego, also a Catholic university, is the first female and lay president in St. Thomas' history.

Read the full story at the Star Tribune [1].

Source URL (retrieved on 07/24/2017 - 06:06): <https://www.ncronline.org/blogs/ncr-today/st-thomas-gets-first-lay-president>

Links:

[1] <http://www.startribune.com/lifestyle/191210751.html>