

Wieseltier Tackles the Next Big Idea

Michael Sean Winters | Mar. 27, 2013 Distinctly Catholic

I've said it before and will say it again: When I grow up, I want to be able to write like Leon Wieseltier. In his latest commentary at The New Republic [1], Leon eviscerates the next big idea, the "Big Data" claims put forward by those whose understanding of the human person is, as he demonstrates, crimped beyond recognition.
