

Colbert disappointed in pope's remarks on redemption for atheists

Eloisa Perez-Lozano | May. 24, 2013 NCR Today

Stephen Colbert was distraught [1] at Pope Francis' remarks regarding atheists in his latest homily. Christ's redemption including atheists in his latest homily.

According to Catholic News Service, the pope was speaking of people of all or no faith working together to do good. "The Lord has redeemed us all with the blood of Christ, all of us, not just Catholics. Everyone," he said. Some may ask, "Father, even the atheists?" Them, too. Everyone."

Source URL (retrieved on 05/23/2017 - 14:09): <https://www.ncronline.org/blogs/ncr-today/colbert-disappointed-popes-remarks-redemption-atheists>

Links:

[1] <http://www.colbertnation.com/the-colbert-report-videos/426700/may-23-2013/redemption-for-all>