

Dillon on DOMA

Michael Sean Winters | Jun. 28, 2013 Distinctly Catholic

Over at CatholicMoralTheology.com [1], Dana Dillon, another one of my theological heroes, has an exquisite essay on how to speak about same sex marriage issues while honoring the core belief of our faith that God is the source of both truth and love. Just a lovely essay from one of the nation's leading up-and-coming theologians. And, the analogy from Dorothy Day is worth the price of admission.
