

Cong. Steve King v. Pope Francis

Michael Sean Winters | Jul. 22, 2013 | Distinctly Catholic

Pope Francis went to Lampedusa and encouraged all people, and especially Catholics, to end their indifference to the fate of immigrants.

Cong. Steve King of Iowa, who is a Catholic, goes on Univision [1] and says that what happens to the undocumented is "not my responsibility."

I am not in favor of denying anyone communion because of a political stance they take, but if I were the pastor at King's parish, I would be tempted, like the bishop at confirmation, to give him a slap on the cheek before he receives the Blessed Sacrament. Be sure to read just how coarse and hoary his comments are.

Source URL (retrieved on 05/29/2017 - 18:11): <https://www.ncronline.org/blogs/distinctly-catholic/cong-steve-king-v-pope-francis>

Links:

[1] http://www.huffingtonpost.com/2013/07/19/steve-king-univision_n_3626086.html