Abortion in Va Gov's Race

by Michael Sean Winters

Another story at Politico. This one on a new poll about the role of abortion in the Virginia Governor's race. I am suspicious of partisan polls: pollsters know who is paying their bills and like to yield a result that satisfies. That said, I think the results point to an issue I have been raising, that we need to persuade people on the issue of abortion or we yield it to the politicians and then it plays out in ways that we will not like.
