

Mocking the race card -- or not?

Mary Ann McGivern | Aug. 2, 2013 NCR Today

Is it mocking to talk about the white riots at Huntington Beach in California at the conclusion of a surfing competition? Or to note that 84 percent of white murder victims are killed by other white people? Take a look here [1] to see this discussion of the stark truth about white culture. One of the participants admits -- or brags -- that his best friends and his mother are white.

A young black woman I've known all her life put the link on her Facebook page. It is always good for us to laugh at ourselves. And after the laughter, chew a little on the content.
