

Young Theologians & Bishops: Building a Bridge

Michael Sean Winters | Sep. 18, 2013 Distinctly Catholic

Over at CatholicMoralTheology.com [1], Thomas Bushlack writes about last week's meeting of young theologians with bishops on the Doctrine Committee of the USCCB. I attended the first meeting two years ago and it was something of a disaster. The bishops, according to Bushlack, responded to some of the criticisms of that first event and this time it was more successful. I was unable to attend this year, but it is worth reading Bushlack's analysis both for the signs of hope and the on-going areas of concern.

Source URL (retrieved on 07/25/2017 - 16:32): <https://www.ncronline.org/blogs/distinctly-catholic/young-theologians-bishops-building-bridge>

Links:

[1] <http://catholicmoraltheology.com/the-intellectual-task-of-the-new-evangelization-hopeful-signs-of-dialogue-between-bishops-and-theologians/>