

Terror in Democratic Republic of the Congo

Michael Sean Winters | Dec. 4, 2013 Distinctly Catholic

Jacques Bahati, at the Africa Faith & Justice Network [1], writes about the deteriorating political situation in the Democratic Republic of the Congo. It makes for sad reading. God Bless the AFJN for continuing to monitor these situations of human tragedy and horror that never seem to make it onto the front pages of our newspapers.

Source URL (retrieved on 06/28/2017 - 07:08): <https://www.ncronline.org/blogs/distinctly-catholic/terror-democratic-republic-congo>

Links:

[1] <http://www.afjn.org/focus-campaigns/promote-peace-d-r-congo/71-policy-objectives/1203-terror-replaces-jubilation-in-eastern-drc-witnesses-report-widespread-looting-and-rapes-by-government-forces-residents-of-several-isolated-rural-villages-in-the-eastern-half-of-the-democratic-republic-of-the-congo-who-celebrated-earlier-this-month-whe.html>