

O Tree of Life

Sisters of the Monastery of Mount St. Scholastica | Dec. 14, 2014 Spiritual Reflections
Advent 2014

O Tree of Life, may we branch out in generosity to others.

"O Christmas tree, O Christmas tree; how lovely are your branches." For many of us, Christmas means the beauty of a tree cut down and decorated with the ornaments and lights. Yet for so many in our world, a tree is truly a source of life: nourishment offered through the tree's fruit, the warmth of its broken branches burning, a source of oxygen in our polluted air, the elimination of erosion. O, tree of life, root me so I, too, may be a source of life for someone today.

-- Sr. Rose Marie Stallbaumer

[The Monastery of Mount St. Scholastica in Atchison, Kan., is home to 140 Benedictine sisters whose presence has been in the Kansas-Missouri area for the last 150 years. While primarily engaged in education, the sisters also sponsor the Keeler Women's Center; Sophia Center, which houses their spirituality programs; and Maur Hill-Mount Academy and Benedictine College, which they co-sponsor with St. Benedict's Abbey.]

Editor's note: Enjoying the antiphons? Sign up for our Spiritual Reflections email alert to receive Scripture reflections throughout Advent and the rest of the year: Email alert sign-up[1].

Source URL (retrieved on 05/22/2017 - 12:43): <https://www.ncronline.org/blogs/spiritual-reflections/o-tree-life>

Links:

[1] <http://ncronline.org/email-alert-signup>